Acknowledgments

The scientific expedition, subject of this report, was conducted with the support and assistance of several institutions and individuals who we sincerely thank. First, our thanks goes to the Total Foundation, without their financial support the expedition would not have happened. Thank you to Laura Fournier of the Foundation Total for her interest in the hotspot of New Caledonia and marine world heritage site. Our thanks to the Department of Economic Development and Environment of Province North, especially Nathalie Baillon and staff for their technical and financial collaboration, and for facilitating administrative procedures necessary to conduct these scientific investigations. And thank you to IFRECOR for its support of this operation.

Dr. Sheila McKenna, and Mr. Malo Hosken, have provided respectively, the scientific coordination and logistics of the expedition. Thank you for their intense efforts for this mission. Thank you to all participating scientists. Without their dedication and availability vis-à-vis the conservation of biodiversity, this mission would not have been possible. We also thank the residents and the tribes surrounding the study sites for their support and their availability on the ground. Many thanks also to Sue Taei, Francois Martel, Schannel Van Dijken, Mathilde Iweins of Conservation International who also participated in the preliminary organization and the finalization of the RAP. The editors would like to express their gratitude to all those mentioned and those not mentioned that have contributed in one way or another to the achievement of this mission.
