We Believe in a More Collaborative, Equitable, and Sustainable Scholarly Ecosystem

Our Mission in Action

BioOne collaborates to create solutions which equitably maximize access to critical research. We seek to connect nonprofit publishers, research libraries, academic institutions, authors, and research funders to advance this common goal.

Since BioOne's founding, our aggregation model has kept fees affordable for libraries while returning meaningful revenue to nonprofit and society publishers. This reinvestment of library funds enables our publishing partners to remain independent and sustain their critical research communities, all while allowing us to offer BioOne Complete at no cost to researchers in 80+ countries via philanthropic programs like Research4Life.
