To produce a guide book to the beetle fauna of Australia is a daunting task. Even such a modest work as this one requires much specialist knowledge. We asked a number of coleopterists to help us with our work. Dr Chris Reid assisted us significantly by reading the manuscript and correcting it where it was necessary. He also helped by identifying many of the Chrysomelidae and some of the other species illustrated. His help is most appreciated.

Dr Martin Baehr, Mr Justine Bartlett, Dr Donald S Chandler, Dr Andrew R Cline, Mr Roger de Keyzer, Ms Lynne Forster, Mr Graham Goodyer, Mr Andreas Herrman, Dr Pawel Jaloszynski, Dr Geoff Monteith, Mr Allen Sundholm, Dr Chris Watts, Dr Adam Slipinski, Mr Tom Weir and Prof Dr Daniel K Young gave very generous assistance by identifying some of our more difficult beetles and provided most helpful, constructive criticism of the text.

Mr Al Allen, Dr James Cornell, Dr Michel Delpont, Mr Paul Hutchison, Mr Stephane Letirant, Dr Otto Merkl and Mr Attila Podlussány gave valuable advice on the identity of some of the pictured beetles.

Dr Jeffrey Gruber, Mr Owen Kelly, Mr Roger de Keyzer, Dr Michael C Thomas, Mr Andreas Urban, and Mr John Gooderham and Dr Edward Tsyrlin, authors of The Waterbug Book, graciously allowed us to use some of their photographs.

We gratefully acknowledge the excellent resources provided by the Australian Museum's FaunaNet website. We have obtained most valuable information from it, regarding flower chafers and Christmas beetles.

We are also very grateful to all those authors whose publications we have used to gather information for this book. Some specific references can be found in the endnotes, but we couldn't possibly find room for all; they are too numerous to mention here, as their work would fill an entire library.

Mentioning all these eminent coleopterists should not be perceived as a disguised disclaimer. Any errors in identification or other faults in the text result from our own assumptions or misinterpretation of correct advice received.

We also would like to thank Mr Phil Colman, who kindly assisted us by reading and correcting the earliest versions of the introductory chapters. We are indebted to Dr David Britton for allowing us to photograph some specimens in the Australian Museum's Coleoptera collection.

We are grateful for the ever-present expert assistance of Mr Nick Alexander of CSIRO Publishing and for the generosity of the publishers who allowed us to use some illustrations from their great book, The Insects of Australia.
