

Materials

Most of the specimens used in this study were made available by the curators of museum collections (acronyms indicate type repositories) or in some cases were from the private collections of generous individuals. I wish to acknowledge my gratefulness to the following: L.H. Rolston and D.A. Rider (Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge [LSU]), J.E. Eger (Dow-Elanco, Tampa, Fla.), H.D. Engelman (Coco Solo, Panama), R.T. Schuh (American Museum Natural History, New York [AMNH]), W.R. Dolling (British Museum [Natural History], London [BMNH]), J.C. Schaffner (Texas A&M University, College Station), T.J. Henry (United States National Museum, Washington D.C. [USNM]), F.W. Mead (Florida State Collection of Arthropods, Gainesville [FSCA]), J. Deckert (Museum Naturkunde Humboldt Universitat, Berlin [MNHB]), M.D. Schwartz (Canadian National Collection of Insects, Arachnids & Nematodes), Ottawa [CNC], H.A. Brailovsky (Universidad Nacional Autonoma Mexico, Mexico City [UNAM]), D. Pluot-Sigwalt (Museum National D'Histoire Naturelle, Paris [MNHP]), J.A. Chemsak (University of California, Berkeley [UCB]), J.E. Rawlins (Carnegie Museum of Natural History, Pittsburgh, Pa. [CMNH]), A.E. Newton (Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, Ill. [FMNH]), C.L. Hogue (Natural History Museum, Los Angeles County), Los Angeles, Calif. [LACM], P.H. Arnaud (California Academy Science, San Francisco [CAS]), T.R. Yonke (University of Missouri, Columbia), W.J. Hansen (Utah State University, Logan), F.D. Parker (USDA-ARS, Cañas, Costa Rica), G. Petersen (Deutsches Entomologisches Institut, Eberswalde, Germany [DEI]), and P. Lindskog (Swedish Museum of Natural History, Stockholm [NRS]).